DEVOTIONAL

Today Shapes Tomorrow

Renae Green

Motherhood matters. But when we've gone without sleep, when there's a sink full of dishes and some gross yellow stain on our shirt, when our coffee is cold and it's been so long since we've showered, when all we want is some uninterrupted time in a nice hot bath, it's easy to question the job's value. At times like these, it's helpful to remember that motherhood is a marathon, not a sprint. The payoff comes not in a monthly paycheck but in the character of our children, as adults, who are well adjusted, kind, hardworking, and God fearing.

That doesn't happen by accident. It happens because of us, Mama. We answered softly when we wanted to yell. It happens because we apologized after yelling instead of passing blame. It happens because of the little things we do, day after day, to put God first and honor Him in our home. All those little choices seep into their fiber and shape who they will become. What we do today, and every day, may seem to go unnoticed. But it will affect our children and their children and generations to come. Our faithfulness matters today. And it matters for eternity.

Lord, help us honor you in the little things. When our children look at us, we want them to see You.

I am reminded of your sincere faith, which first lived in your grandmother Lois and in your mother Eunice and, I am persuaded, now lives in you also. -1 Timothy 1:5
