Devotional

You are no stranger to Me, dear one. I knew you before I formed you in your mother's womb. And I have known you every moment of your life. I delight in making you more and more into the person I created you to be, just as a potter delights in creating a masterpiece with his clay. Because My Presence is always with you, you are never alone. Never. I'm training you to be more and more aware of Me.

But I understand that you are human and your thoughts wander away from Me. Sometimes, especially when you're upset or suffering, you may feel as if you're alone or think that I've left you. But that is never true! I suffered all alone on the cross so that you would never have to be alone in your struggles. I am always with you; I hold you by your right hand.

The last enemy you will ever face is death, but you don't even have to fear that! I defeated death when I rose up alive from the tomb. Trust Me to guide you all through your life and to take you home with Me someday-to the Glory of heaven.
