DEVOTIONAL

Body and Soul

Wayne Jackson

Does man consist solely of flesh and bones, or is there an eternal something that resides within the tabernacle of flesh? Materialism, both secular and religious (e.g., Watchtowerism and Adventism), advocates the former concept, while the Bible teaches the latter. In this intriguing context, John shows an obvious distinction between the body and the soul. “Beloved, I pray that in all things you may prosper and be in health, even as your soul is prospering” (3 John 2). Of special significance here is the adverb kathos, “even as”, which indicates a comparison. John hopes that the bodily health of Gaius will prosper even as this brother’s soul is prospering. There is a clear distinction here between the physical body and the soul. Circle “health” and draw an arrow to the margin. Write: body. Then circle “soul” and note: separate from the body. The language is similar to phraseology in 2 Corinthians 7:1, where Paul alludes to the “defilement of flesh and spirit.” Enter this reference in your margin. We are more than mere material substance!
