DEVOTIONAL

Never too Busy

If anyone could understand the temptation to let busyness distract Him from the Father's activity, Jesus certainly could! He told a parable that clearly illustrated this danger. A certain Jewish man was on his way to Jericho when he was brutally attacked by thieves and left to die by the road. First a Levite, then a priest came by. These were religious leaders, surely they would show compassion to a wounded person! But they had places to go and appointments to keep, so they passed him by. Surely someone else would come along who had more time to help the wounded man! Then a Samaritan, despised by the Jews, came along. Of all people, this man had reason to look the other way, since the wounded man was his enemy. But wherever he was going could wait, for someone needed his help.

It is easy to become so busy that we are oblivious to those in need. Our schedule can become so full of accomplishing good things that we are of no help to the people around us. God is at work in the lives of our friends, our neighbors, our family members. He may ask us to interrupt our day long enough to join Him as He ministers to them. Nothing on our agenda, no matter how pressing, is reason enough to ignore the voice of God when He tells us to stop and help. If we have become too busy to minister to those around us, we must ask God to reestablish our priorities so that we do not miss opportunities to serve Him.

"But a Samaritan on his journey came up to him, and when he saw the man, he had compassion."
